René Gabriel, WeinWisser: „Extrem dunkles Purpur mit schwarzen Reflexen. Verhaltene, aber sehr viel Tiefe anzeigendes Bouquet, Dörrfrüchte, Korinthen, frisch fermentierter Schwarztee. Cremiger, sehr dichter Gaumen, eine tolle Reife im konzentrierten Extrakt, schwarze Kirschen und Korinthen im langen, fast rauchigen, mit Spitzwegerich bestückten Finale. Ein gewaltiger, sehr langlebiger, aber auch Geduld verlangender Clos L'Église, ganz im Stil der alten, grossen Jahrgänge, in der Genussreife wohl 19/20 erreichbar. 18/20 Punkten.“ Parker: „This brilliant Pomerol made by Dr. Alain Raynaud for proprietress Helene Garcin is beautifully situated not far from l'Église Clinet. A star in the making since Madame Garcin took control of the estate in 1997, the 2006 offers beautiful blueberry, raspberry, and cherry notes intermixed with toasty new oak, spring flowers, and spice. Soft tannin, medium to full-bodied, lovely fruit, and fine length suggest this impressive effort should drink deliciously for 15 or more years. 92-94 Punkte.“ Tanzer: „Bright ruby. Wonderfully ripe aromas of black raspberry, coffee and spices. Dense, layered and rich, with compelling dark fruit intensity complicated by bitter chocolate and exotic spices. Finishes with broad, supple tannins that are hidden by the wine's superb depth of fruit. This is amazingly strong for the year, with the structure and palate-staining length to ensure a long life in bottle. The 15% cabernet franc component is from vines planted in 1941, notes Helene Garcin, whose family purchased this six-hectare estate in 1997 and has turned it into one of the jewels of Pomerol. The alcohol of 13.8% is actually a hair higher than that of 2005. 91-94 points.“ Jancis Robinson: "Very dark. A bit rustic and plodding on the nose but on the palate there is lots of sweetness – very flattering to taste in fact. Racy, satin textured. I think many people will like this wine even though it is not especially fine or elegant. Lots of bang for the buck. Clean finish. 16,5/20 Punkten.“
